Important information for safety and security requirements data-provision if you import goods into Great Britain (GB) from the European Union (EU)

Entry Summary Declarations

From 31 January 2025, you must submit an Entry Summary Declarations (ENS) if importing goods from the EU to GB. The information from an ENS is used to protect citizens and Great Britain from illicit goods such as drugs and weapons.

Carriers or hauliers who are moving goods across the GB border are legally responsible for submitting Safety and Security declarations, although they can agree for a third party to submit declarations on their behalf.

We encourage all businesses involved in EU-GB imports to familiarise themselves with these new requirements.

Please talk to your supply chains now to agree who is responsible for completing ENS for EU to GB imports, and what information will be needed, from 31 January 2025.

How to submit Entry Summary Declarations

Entry Summary Declarations are submitted into an IT system called S&S GB.

There are different options for submitting Entry Summary Declarations, such as buying specialist software or using customs agents/intermediaries.

Making things easier

From 31 January 2025 we'll reduce the amount of data required on a S&S declaration.
